

Board to Ask Attorney General For Opinion on Power of Ordinance To Set Salary of County Official

Wilson Questioned On Attempts to Get Garrison Overpayment

The Saline County Board of Supervisors yesterday voted to get an opinion from the attorney general on the power of an appropriation ordinance has in the setting of the salary of a county official.

The vote was prompted by the fact that an auditor's report in May stated that County Clerk Don B. Garrison had received in salary a total of $9,726.50 between 1952 and May of this year above the $5,500 annual wage provided for him by the board in the annual appropriation ordinance.

At the May meeting it was pointed out that state law provided that a county clerk in a county the size of Saline could receive up to $7,500 a year; and it was argued by some that if the county board had not set his salary by resolution, it had not been set at any particular figure and that he could collect up to $7,500 although it was not the intent of the board.

Approve Lockwood Motion
Yesterday Herman McFarlin (R, Independence) said he believed ed the county board had erred in not setting the salary by resolution. He said he had talked to a member of the auditing firm of Coker and Coker of Peoria, which annually audits county books, and was told by the auditor that he had checked back through 1948 and could find no resolution.

William Alfred Smith (R, Galatia) and others said they believed that the salary provided in the appropriation ordinance should be binding, and after some discussion a motion by John Lockwood (R, Harrisburg) to inquire from the attorney general was approved.

That ended the discussion on that subject, which began when Chairman Howard Patterson (R, Tate), called in State's Attorney Robert V. Wilson. Patterson on July 16 had written Wilson a letter asking the state's attorney to appear "to make a report to the board on what efforts have been made through your office to collect for the county the overpayment to County Clerk Don Garrison."

Letter to Board

Wilson, who appeared, previously in the day had written a letter to the board, which said: "During the past several weeks I have often been alleged that some public officials and employees of Saline county have been engaged in certain irregularities in their official capacity and in the disbursement of public funds. "My investigation indicates that in order to best protect the interest of the people of Saline county, these matters should be brought out in the open in a court of competent jurisdiction. We should continue to gather evidence, present the same to the court and let the chips fall where they may. "No complaint has ever been filed in my office concerning any of these matters."

Recommendations

"In view of the foregoing, I respectfully make the following recommendations and requests: "1. Authority to hire an independent auditor to audit and investigate the books and accounts of officials and employees whenever such action is believed to be in the public interest by either the state's attorney's office or the court. Such auditor to be absolutely free from the control of any Saline county official and to be responsible only to the state's attorney's office and the court."

"2. Authority to commence legal action against any and all public officials, employees and their bonding companies when the evidence indicates that such actions can be successfully prosecuted and are in the best interest of the public. "3. Authority to make the necessary and proper expenditures in order to accomplish the desired results."

Claim to Bonding Company
When Wilson entered the room, Patterson asked him what had been done "to collect the overpayments of Garrison." Wilson replied that he had made the claim to the bonding company and had photostated the audit.

Mr. Maxwell was handing them out jubilantly because on July 1, which was since the previous meeting of the board, he has taken a wife.

On July 1 he was married to Mrs. Connie Houle of West Frankfort. They are making their home in Eldorado.

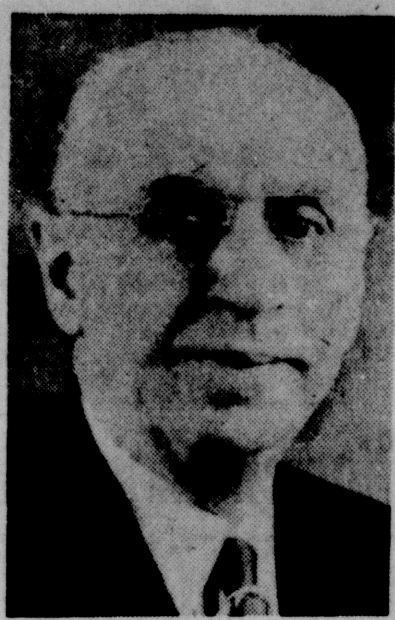

Lightning Kills Boy on Golf Course; 70 Tourists Marooned in Colorado

By United Press

Storms killed a boy in Wisconsin and marooned 70 tourists in Colorado late Thursday as lightning flashed over a large portion of the nation.

A bolt of lightning killed Russell Geschke on a Racine, Wis., golf course and injured a companion. The bolt burned off their shoes and clothes.

A 10-foot wall of water rushed into Colorado's Royal Gorge where 70 sightseers were trapped by the failure of an incline railway. A small unidentified child was swept into the rough water, but pulled to safety by one of the group.

Gov. Stratton Defends His Own Administration

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Gov. William G. Stratton said Thursday night that former Auditor Orville E. Hodge, who resigned under fire in the $800,000 check scandal involving his office, was an "elected official, more or less responsible to the people."

While carefully avoiding mentioning Hodge by name, Stratton in a speech here said the former official was "a man of great promise, who was found to be wanting."

He said "our sympathy for such a person should not be allowed to interfere" with governmental operations.

His own office, Stratton said, is "competent, reputable . . . and has taken an efficient course, recognizing our duties and carrying them out."

He said a similar scandal in the governor's office would be impossible because department heads are required to file monthly financial reports.

"I am willing to stand on my own record," Stratton said. "There have been no scandals involving officials appointed by myself."

Stratton struck back at his predecessor, Adlai Stevenson, who earlier called for an investigation of the entire Stratton administration because he did not think the "situation could be confined to a single office."

House Committee Approves $440 Million for AEC

Group Balks at Attack Against Commission Strauss

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee, on a party line vote, today overrode administration opposition and approved an extra 440 million dollars to speed the government's atomic power program.

The committee balked, however, at approving a subcommittee report sharply critical of the Atomic Energy Commission and Chairman Lewis L. Strauss in particular.

The committee voted to "tone down" the critical report, but left it up to Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) to make the revisions.

The report, as recommended by the subcommittee and as made available to newsmen earlier today, charged that America's atomic power program is "stagnating because of the dogmatic attitude of Chairman Strauss."

After the committee's closed-door meeting it was announced that, in accordance with usual practice, the subcommittee action had been approved unchanged. Later it developed that Rep. J. Vaughn Gary (D-Va) had moved that Cannon revise the language critical of Strauss and other commission members.

Cannon was given the rest of the day to make the changes. Meanwhile Republican members were preparing a minority report. It was expected to defend Strauss and the administration's contention that construction of power reactors should be left to private industry, with government help.

Strauss has contended that the United States is making completely satisfactory progress in atomic power under the present program of letting private industry take the lead in its development. He has vigorously opposed proposals by AEC members Thomas E. Murray and some Democratic members of Congress to launch a large-scale, government-financed program of building atomic power reactors.

Gov't Reports $1.7 Billion Surplus; First in Five Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The treasury wound up fiscal 1956 with a $1,754,000,000 surplus—its first in five years.

The government used the surplus to whittle down the national debt.

The treasury in the 12 month period ending June 30 spent $66,400,000,000 billion and took in $68,100,000,000, mainly from personal and corporation income taxes.

The surplus is the first since June 30, 1951, when the government took in $3,500,000,000 more than it spent.

This year's income figure is an all-time record. But spending was well under the $98,400,000,000 record set in 1945.

The surplus helped the administration reduce the national debt to $272,361,216,449, compared with $273,914,849,696 at the end of the previous fiscal year.

Democrats See Little Chance For Postal Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic sources said today that the postal rate increase bill is dead for this session of Congress.

The Senate Post Office Committee continued hearings on a House-approved measure which would increase postal rates on letters, magazines, newspapers and advertising material.

But there appeared to be no possibility that the 100 or so persons who have asked to testify could be heard before Congress adjourns. Chairman Olin D. Johnston (D-S.C.) has taken the position that all the witnesses must be heard before the committee acts on the bill.

Nevertheless, President Eisenhower Thursday voiced a "prayerful" hope that the bill would reach the Senate floor before adjournment. He told Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield that he urgently wants the 430 million dollar bill passed "to bring to an end the unreasonable" deficits the Post Office Department has been chalking up for the past 10 years.

Summerfield earlier reiterated support for a smaller increase in postal rates for magazines and newspapers than called for in the House bill.

But neither this concession nor Mr. Eisenhower's pleas appeared to have brightened prospects for the legislation reaching the Senate floor before adjournment.

The bill would provide for hiking postage on regular and air mail letters to four cents and seven cents, respectively.

Mock Sneak Attacks Open Alert; Federal Workers Flee Capital

EMERGENCY PRESS HEADQUARTERS, Operation Alert (A six-day nationwide civil defense "Operation Alert 1956" was kicked off at 11 a. m. EDT today with a mock sneak atomic attack on Pearl Harbor and Puerto Rico.

Some 10,000 federal officials and workers fled Washington to 37 secret emergency centers 50 to 350 miles from the capital. Ten state governments also moved key personnel to places of theoretical safety from hydrogen and atomic bombs.

Reports of the surprise attack were relayed through this emergency press headquarters more than 100 miles from Washington. Though President Eisenhower remained in the capital, his orders were made public here.

At 11:05 a. m. EDT the press headquarters issued this bulletin: "A simulated surprise attack was launched against the United States at 11 a. m. EDT today with the simultaneous mock bombing of Hawaii and Puerto Rico."

"This is the initial phase of a nationwide civil defense training exercise."

Came Without Warning
Further announcements followed from time to time as they came in through the Civil Defense communications network.

The first imaginary attacks came without warning from offshore submarines firing guided missiles nuclear warheads. Honolulu was hit by two missiles—one burst in the air over Pearl Harbor and the other in the air over Hickam Air Force Base.

The hazards of fallout were minimized, press headquarters said, because both bombs burst in the air.

But another imaginary missile hit the College of the Sacred Heart in San Juan, P. R., and burst on the ground, raising the hazard of fallout.

Each missile had explosive force equivalent to 100,000 tons of TNT. As air raid sirens shrieked in

Wheat Growers Ballot Today On Marketing Curbs or Lower Supports

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wheat growers go to the polls today to choose between strict government marketing curbs and lower government price supports for their 1957 crops.

If the growers approve controls they will be assured of a minimum national average price support rate of $2 a bushel—82 1/2 per cent of the June parity price for wheat.

But if they refuse, supports would drop to 50 per cent of parity—about $1.21 a bushel.

Agriculture Department economists predicted privately that the growers will overwhelmingly choose controls. They said it was "simply a matter of money-in-the-pocket" to accept controls on next year's crop.

Resumes Talk With Coutrakon For Grand Jury

State's Attorney Interrupts Conference; Talks to Reporters

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Orville E. Hodge denied today that he ever gave money to St. Louis area hoodlums or had any dealings with them.

State's Atty. George P. Coutrakon told reporters after questioning Hodge for two hours that Hodge told him he had no connection with gangster elements with whom he has been linked.

Coutrakon said Hodge told him he knew Frank (Buster) Wortman, an East St. Louis gambler, only "slightly." But Coutrakon said Hodge told him he gave no money to Wortman or any other underworld figure, and had no business dealings with them.

Coutrakon resumed interrogation of Hodge in preparation for a grand jury session Monday.

The prosecutor said he has not drawn up any specific charges against anyone involved in the huge check scandal in the auditor's office yet. But he said he hopes to have some indictments returned next week, possibly Monday.

Hodge, smiling and looking dapper, arrived at the Sangamon County courthouse for the conference with his attorney, Arthur M. Fitzgerald.

Talks With Reporters

The conference started shortly after 10 a. m. CDT with a court reporter sitting in and transcribing Hodge's statements. Coutrakon left the conference for a few minutes after noon to talk with reporters clustered at his office door.

A reporter asked Coutrakon whether he believed Hodge was telling the truth when he denied connections with hoodlums.

"I don't know whether he is telling the truth or not," the state's attorney said.

But he said that he himself had not received any information about Hodge's possible connection with gangsters "from any authoritative source."

Coutrakon said that in five hours of questioning Hodge Wednesday and the first two hours today, he had completed obtaining details on 42 state checks involved in the scandal.

"That took a lot of time," he said.

"We are now going into the question of Hodge's connection and stock interest in other banks," Coutrakon said.

No Objection to Questions

He mentioned savings and loan associations and other business connections of the ex-state auditor, but declined to give any details.

Coutrakon said Hodge had gone into the procedure in the auditor's office for drawing up and issuing state warrants.

"He has named some names in that connection," Coutrakon said.

But the prosecutor declined to identify those named by Hodge.

Coutrakon was asked whether Hodge had indicated that he used proceeds from the state checks in the scandal to payoff loans or meet other obligations.

"I don't think I'll go into that," Coutrakon said.

Coutrakon said Fitzgerald had not objected to any of the questions he asked Hodge, and Hodge "has not refused to answer any."

"He seems more specific in his answers today than on Wednesday," Coutrakon said.

The prosecutor noted that Hodge looked "more composed, cheerful and relaxed" today than he did Wednesday.

County Lowers Fee for Dog Vaccinations

Truck Load Limit Signs are Placed On Harco Road

Dog vaccination prices went down and load limit signs on the Harco road went up with penalties attached as a result of separate actions at yesterday's meeting of the Saline County Board of Supervisors.

Since the state rabies prevention law in Saline county went into effect March 15, the fee has been $2.50, higher than in previous years, with $1.50 going to the veterinarian doing the vaccinating and $1 to the county. The county has been getting its dollar by selling the vaccination tags to the veterinarians at a dollar apiece. Yesterday the fee was made 75 cents less, or $1.75 if the vets stick to the $1.50 as their part.

Mrs. Tim Turner, president of the Harrisburg Humane society, in a letter to the board, said that the intent of the law was being defeated here because of the high cost of the vaccinations. She showed figures showing that up to 1,800 dogs had been vaccinated in the past in Saline county, but that the number had fallen far short since the price increased for vaccinations.

The board voted to reduce the county's share to 25 cents, making the cost of the vaccination $1.75 instead of $2.50, effective today. The motion reducing the amount said that veterinarians who have $1 tags on hand may go to the county clerk's office and put in a claim for the difference.

Overloads Damage Road
R. D. Brown, county superintendent of highways, said that scales already have arrived to weigh trucks believed to be overloaded on the Harco road and to weigh materials brought for road purposes.

He said the load limit on the road will be five tons gross per axle, with penalties for violations.

New Reduced Prices In Effect at Rabies Vaccination Saturday

The new reduced prices will be in effect Saturday at a rabies vaccination clinic to be sponsored by the Harrisburg Humane society.

Yesterday the county board reduced the county's part of the fee from $1 to 25 cents; so the price tomorrow will be $1.75 instead of $2.50 as has been the case since March 15, when the rabies vaccination law was set up in the county.

The vaccinations will be given on the Cherry street side of the city hall from 1 to 5 p. m.

Ike's Health

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

The authoritative word on President Eisenhower's decision to stay in the 1956 race came in such a way as to indicate his clear intention to avoid making it a big thing.

Instead of a dramatic personal announcement like he made last February, five months after his heart attack, an indirect statement through Sen. William Knowland, GOP Senate minority leader, was the President's device this time.

This fits a pattern that has prevailed almost from the onset of his second illness: the official treatment of this period as one of normal convalescence from a major operation which led to no complications.

As part of this pattern, it should be noted that Mr. Eisenhower did not this time delay his decision until after he had tested himself vigorously with a reasonably full load of work and play. A month after his operation, he is still on a limited work schedule at Gettysburg.

Evidently the President has been convinced by his doctors and by his own feelings of well-being during the recovery interlude that no such testing and no exhaustive soul-searching is necessary on this occasion.

Some have felt that the doctors and certain members of the President's staff were treating his illness too casually in the convalescence period. They argued that his affliction — ileitis — was a grave matter that recurred more often than not and thus could mean future trouble.

Medical testimony made it plain there was disagreement on these points. And in any event, it was noted, the severity of the illness, the degree of recovery and the prospects of recurrence are quite individual matters on which it is not wise to generalize—especially at a distance from the patient.

The President's decision to keep on running and to treat his current illness more or less routinely may well be questioned by some. But it will quite properly be tested at the polls, this November.

The people will have to decide for themselves whether the President seems fit for the exacting duties of another White House term. They have four months to watch him in action.

All the evidences at hand thus far indicate not only the majority's approval of his stewardship but a popular willingness to accept his own judgments of his physical capacity to do the job.

There is no sign yet that any sizable segment of the voting public credits the image some would draw of Mr. Eisenhower as an "amiable tool" of self-serving politicians. The reactions suggest people think he has a mind and will of his own and is quite capable of exercising them independently of pressure.

Undoubtedly the fact of two serious illnesses in a man of 65 will influence more voters than would a single affliction. Yet there appears to be a strong disposition for people to believe that the risk in Mr. Eisenhower's case is very little if any greater than it would be with any other man his age.

Cry, Clown, Cry

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: The "Cardiac Kids" Kid Each Other; Small-Business Bill Gets Bogged Down In Senate; Big-Business Lobby Would Kill "Equal Opportunity" Bill.

WASHINGTON. — Several days before he left for Panama, President Eisenhower put in a phone call to Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson and talked to him about various legislative problems, from the closing date of Congress to foreign aid.

They also kidded each other about their cardiacs, both having had heart attacks. At the last Gridiron dinner Ike brought down the house when, referring to Johnson, he said: "My fellow cardiac."

In phoning to Johnson, Eisenhower's chief concern was getting his foreign aid bill passed. He also asked whether it was important for him to be in Washington when Congress adjourned, and wondered whether adjournment might take place before he left for Panama. This proved to be impossible.

Finally, the President urged Johnson to pass the executive pay raise bill at this session.

Note — When Senator Morse of Oregon heard about this latter request, he remarked: "This is where I came in." He recalled that on the closing day of Congress one year ago, White House aides had commandeered Vice President Nixon's office just off the Senate chamber from which to buttonhole senators to put across the executive pay raise bill. Their activity caused Morse to remark: "If they worked as hard for the rest of the program as they do to get their salaries raised, they'd have more of the program passed."

SMALL-BUSINESS BILL

While the German lobby has been able to get a bill for the return of alien property before the full Senate, the one bill of vital concern to small business has been blocked in the Senate. It's the Patman "Equality of Opportunity" bill.

And though it passed the House of Representatives by the overwhelming vote of 396 to 3, powerful big-business interests have been pulling wires to keep the bill from reaching the Senate floor. Once that bill reaches the floor, few senators could vote against it.

The bill, which prohibits price cutting whenever it tends to create a monopoly, is backed by thousands of small business firms all over the country—gas-station operators, retail grocers, food brokers, and others who have suffered from price cutting by the big chains and the big oil companies.

Small business men gave over a thousand pages of testimony before the House; over a thousand before the Senate. They showed that if the bill was not passed, thousands of retail grocers operating on a one-cent margin would be wiped out before the end of the year.

They cited case after case where big companies had lowered prices, forced smaller competitors into bankruptcy, then, having secured a monopoly, raised prices.

However, it looks as if the bill would now die in the Senate—for two reasons: The White House is quietly pulling wires to kill the bill. Second, Senator Johnson has passed out word that he only wants to consider most legislation. Democratic Chairman Paul Butler has sent word to Senate Democratic leaders urging that they pass the bill, pointing out that the Democrats will not be able to pin the big-business label on Eisenhower if it doesn't pass.

However, the bill is still stymied. Democratic leaders have done little to pry the bill loose, and Senator Eastland of Mississippi, chairman of the Judiciary committee, has been dragging his heels.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D. Written for NEA Service

Drabness is depressing to the mind and spirit. When we walk into a drab room we get an impression of darkness and a feeling that the place may be dirty. Actually this first impression is often unjustified.

Frequently when we look around we are surprised to find that the room is clean, the paint unsoiled, the color attractive, the lighting moderate.

What causes the oppressive influence? It is the combination of colors, lighting, and many of the other factors. Each, in itself, would be uplifting if it were combined differently. The room would lose its physical drabness if it were filled with smiling, happy people.

Many men and women are drab and uninteresting because they do not combine their interests and their activities in a way to uplift their spirits and the spirits of their friends.

Sometimes we look at ourselves and think we are "good" people. Goodness in itself is not enough. It too can be drab and uninteresting. It is better to be good than to be bad or evil or sinful, but mere goodness lacks the combination of human and spiritual factors to be of service to mankind.

Goodness is transformed by the presence of God and His smiling, vitally alive children. The spirit of love, friendship, brotherhood, service, and sharing, transforms drab people into folk who are interesting and inspiring.

Capital Canals

Tenochtitlan, capital of Mexico in Aztec days, was a city of canals much like Venice, yet it was situated where Mexico City stands today, more than 7,000 feet above sea level.

Julius Caesar, in B. C. 46, revised the calendar and made January the first month of the year.

Democrats claim that for the first time in history the Salvation Army is playing politics. When you get a meal from the Salvation Army you eat on a place mat featuring "Presidents In Military Uniform" with the statement: "President Eisenhower is the 19th president with a military record. Over one-half of the presidents served their country in uniform. The others were Washington, Monroe, Jackson, W. H. Harrison, Tyler, Taylor, Pierce, Buchanan, Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Truman. Lincoln served briefly in the Black Hawk war. Johnson was appointed military governor of Tennessee by Lincoln. Arthur was a quartermaster general for New York state in Civil War days."

CHURCH LEADERS BLOCKED

Congressman Judd, Minnesota Republican, is an ex-missionary who spent some years in China. Yet he has blocked the proposal sponsored by leading churches for the distribution of our surplus food.

What church leaders hoped to do was pool the world's surplus food in a United Nations food bank and permit needy nations to draw on it. But their plan was opposed by the commodities speculators who gamble on food shortages and surpluses and who knew a world food bank would tend to stabilize food prices, thus cut speculating profits.

The Senate agreed with church leaders and passed an amendment to the foreign aid bill, authorizing the Agriculture Department to contribute its huge surplus to such a food bank. But at this point Congressman Judd stepped in and blocked the proposal behind closed doors in a Senate-House conference. Judd persuaded his House colleagues to stand firm against a food bank, thus deadlocked the conference. Finally, in order to get agreement on the foreign aid bill, the Senate conferees were forced to abandon the church leaders' proposal.

Women Ministers Increase in U. S.

WASHINGTON — UP — Two of the nation's largest Protestant denominations are making a clean break with St. Paul's classic advice to early Christians: "Let your women keep silent in the churches."

Henceforth women will be able to speak—with the full authority of ordained ministers—from Methodist and Presbyterian pulpits. The Methodist Church, which previously had granted only limited ministerial licenses to women, voted overwhelmingly at its recent quadrennial General Conference at Minneapolis, Minn., to grant full clergy rights to qualified women.

The Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., so-called northern branch of Presbyterianism, approved the ordination of women ministers at its annual General Assembly at Philadelphia late in May. The proposal had been rejected twice before in 1930 and in 1947.

Percentage Doubled
The National Council of Churches estimates that approximately 80 U. S. religious bodies now ordain or license women for the ministry. But most of these are comparatively small and little-known sects.

Among the larger bodies which have long permitted women to serve as preachers are the Northern Baptists, Congregationalists, Disciples of Christ, Church of God, Unitarians, Universalists, Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America. Quakers do not ordain ministers, but they "recognize" members of either sex, without discrimination, as pastoral leaders of Friends' meetings.

The 1950 federal census showed 6,777 women ministers in the United States, or 41 per cent of the total number of clergymen. This was an all-time high for women ministers, more than double the figure for the 1940 census.

But a survey conducted by the Yearbook of American Churches in 1951 indicated that only 2,896, or less than half, of the ordained women ministers actually had jobs as pastors of churches.

Reasons Cited

The National Council's Department of United Church Women sponsored a study in 1953 to determine why such a comparatively small number of qualified women were unable to find pulpits.

Mrs. Pearl S. Hemingway, a Congregationalist leader who directed the study, reported that "in spite of the shortage of men for ministerial positions, a church seldom calls a woman except as interim or summer supply when no man can be found for the job. 'Objections to women as ministers were listed as their lack of vocal power, especially in the larger churches, and their handicap in carrying out pastoral duties, particularly calls made at night,' she added.

The study showed that some denominations still accept St. Paul's admonition as sufficient grounds for barring women ministers. But others, including many fundamentalist groups which stress literal interpretation of the Bible, take the view that the apostle's advice was intended for specific churches of his own day, and was in no sense an edict binding on modern churches.

Impractical
The U. S. Department of Agriculture states that it is not commercially possible to grow coffee in the United States because of the high cost of labor and land.

Devoted Wife Cares for Husband Unconscious for Nearly Three Years

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (UP) — A devoted wife said today "it's been a long time" as she began the 24-hour routine of caring for her husband who does not know he is alive.

Johnny Thomerson, 26, has been unconscious for almost three years. Since the night of Oct. 7, 1953, he has seen nothing and heard nothing.

His tragedy has crowded the lives of four people.

"He should have been dead a long time ago," Dr. Rafford Butler said. "Only antibiotics and good nursing care have kept him alive."

Butler said he knew of no other case in which a man has lived unconscious for so long.

Mrs. Parkie Thomerson was a bride of 4½ months when she was called to City Hospital here. She was accompanied by Johnny's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Thomerson.

When they arrived at the hospital doctors already had performed an emergency operation. Johnny had severely injured the cortex of his brain. The operation failed to restore his powers to think.

It was then that Johnny began his life of tragic silence.

He never knew what happened when his car careened out of control near here. He never will.

"The thinking part of his brain, the cortex, was severely injured in the accident," Butler said. "However, his involuntary reflexes and other parts of his brain are functioning."

Johnny receives around the clock nursing care by Mrs. Thomerson, his parents and his sister, Betty Jane.

An informal meeting was enjoyed by the Sororial club Chic-Chi's Thursday evening at the town park.

The main purpose of the meeting was to discuss the selling of Christmas cards by the club. Samples of the cards were shown and discussed by the president, Jo Gilchrist.

Refreshments of salads, tomatoes, wieners, Pepsi's and pie were served to Nina Patton, Judy Smith, Timmy Lee and David Earl, Vonneggs and Gary, Marjory Whiting, an old member, Georgia Butler, a guest, Doris Roper, Patty Durfee, Marcheta Clore, Marcie and Larry Wayne, Winnie Craig, Jo Gilchrist and Brad, and Nellie Yocum.

A barbecue and swimming party at Dixon Springs was planned for Thursday night, July 19, for the members and husbands. A refreshment committee was appointed.

Marjory Whiting and Bonnie Bolin received Mystery Pal gifts.

The next meeting will be at Nellie Yocum's home on Aug. 2.

Monday, July 23, the Royal Ambassadors of the Carrier Mills Baptist church will go to Lake Sallateeska for the week of training and recreation. The RA's are boys nine through sixteen studying missionary work of the denomination and the Bible. The work is divided into ranks: the first is candidate, the page, squire, knight and ambassador, ambassador extraordinary and ambassador plenipotentiary.

The men from the Carrier Mills Baptist church furnished the music on the Baptist Hour over WEBQ Sunday, July 15, after which they went to the church basement for breakfast.

The churches of Carrier Mills held their monthly union prayer service at the air-conditioned auditorium of the Baptist church. The Ministerial association sponsors this union meeting and Bro. Elmer Grisham preached. Bro. Grisham is pastor of the new Social Brethren church on the Highway 45 in Carrier Mills.

County Lowers Fees On Dog Vaccinations

as follows: First violation, from $50 to $100; second violation, from $100 to $200; and third violation, from $200 to $300.

Brown said the Harco road is being damaged by overloads and pointed out that the road is being built by all the county and not by any particular section.

The board, which previously had adopted the load limit, yesterday approved the penalties.

Charles Skaggs (R Harrisburg) of the Finance committee said he had been checking some county purchases and learned that in many cases needed items can be bought locally cheaper than through out-of-town houses. He urged that all county officials check first and see if items can be bought as cheap or cheaper in this county before giving orders to out-of-town firms.

The county board also discussed the hiring of an oil and gas clerk to assist the board of review in county oil and gas assessments.

Chairman Howard Patterson (R Tate) said he believed one should be appointed so that the county will be getting the taxes it is due from oil sources.

Patterson said a Jefferson county man named Jones wanted to go out and secure assessments left off last year's books, with his pay to be 25 per cent of the money collected at the treasurer's office for bringing in the missed oil assessments.

He also said that Barney Fitzgerald of Vienna had contacted the board and said he would do a complete job on this year's assessments for $300 and take over those left off last year for a cheaper figure than 25 per cent.

Patterson appointed a committee to negotiate with Fitzgerald.

U. S. Withdraws Offer to Help Build Egypt Dam

WASHINGTON (UP) — The U. S. decision to withdraw its offer of aid for Egypt's Aswan Dam was a calculated risk designed to deflate Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser and put Russia on the spot, informed sources said today.

The surprise action, announced Thursday night, deprives Nasser of continuing his game of playing the United States against the Soviet Union in an attempt to get the best deal possible for the dam. Now, officials said, the Egyptian strongman must go to Russia and ask for help instead of bargaining for it as he could while the American offer stood.

Russia may find herself on the spot because there is a question whether she can afford to pour the resources into the $1.3 billion water resources project needed to see it through to completion.

The United States announcement that it was withdrawing its seven-month-old offer to help build the Nile River dam came after a 70-minute meeting between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Egyptian Ambassador Ahmed Hussein.

Hussein, who had arrived from Cairo Monday with instructions to accept the Western offer, refused to discuss his meeting with reporters. He appeared to some stunned.

Witness Says Night Marches Regular Training

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (UP) — A witness testified at Marine Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon's manslaughter court-martial today that he was following standard training practice at this boot training camp when he led his platoon into a tidal creek the night of April 8.

Six men died in the "death march" which McKeon said he organized to teach a "laggard" outfit some "discipline and morale."

S. Sgt. Edward A. Huff, senior drill instructor of Platoon 71 and McKeon's immediate superior, told about the night march exercises after the court-martial judge ruled such evidence admissible.

The witness, a hard-bitten, hawk-nosed staff sergeant, not only said such training was a practice but added that he himself had threatened to march the platoon to the swamp if they did not snap out of their training lethargy.

Victory For Defense

Prior to this testimony, Capt. Irving N. Klein, presiding as law officer at the court, had opened the way for testimony about such practices by ruling it is material to the manslaughter and "oppression of troops" sections of the charges against McKeon.

Klein's ruling was considered a victory for the defense which has argued throughout the court-martial that long night marches were customary at Parris Island — part of the program it takes to turn a soft civilian into a Marine toughened for battle.

The ruling had the potentiality of opening a flood gate on testimony which had been volunteered by ex-Marines throughout the country in response to an appeal by Berne.

Many of the telephone calls and telegrams have been from men who claimed they had been marched into water as Marine recruits at this famous training depot.

Two Positions Open on Equality High School Faculty

There are two positions on the Equality Township high school faculty to be filled, J. S. McMurtry, principal, has announced.

Four members of the teaching staff have resigned since the close of last term, but two of the vacancies have been filled.

Charles Ellis, graduate of Murray College, will teach mathematics and science, succeeding Guy DeNeal, resigned.

Nellie Sheffer, also a Murray College graduate, has been hired to teach commercial subjects. Mrs. Audra Shann was commercial instructor last year, but announced her resignation near the close of the term.

The Equality high school needs a coach who can teach history and government and a music teacher who also can handle girls' physical education, to complete the faculty. Mr. McMurtry stated a coach may be hired within a few days, as the board of education just recently interviewed one applicant and others interested in the post are expected to visit the school and talk with board members soon.

Ingram-Dalton Marriage Solemnized Saturday at First Baptist Church

Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Dalton

In a lovely summer wedding which took place Saturday, July 14, Miss Connie Beth Ingram, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olen J. Ingram, became the bride of George Edward Dalton of Harrisburg, son of the late John Louis and Elsie Dalton.

The double ring ceremony was performed at six o'clock in the evening at the First Baptist church by the pastor, the Rev. R. J. Morman, before a white altar decorated with tall standards of white gladioli and daisies and small emerald and jade greenery. Forty-two white tapers burned in six candelabra in the background.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, chose a floor length wedding gown of dupioni silk fashioned with long fitted sleeves which tapered to a point over the hand and closed with tiny covered buttons. Small lace flowers centered with dew drop pearls were appliqued on the low scalloped neckline. The bouffant skirt extended into a chapel train.

A crown of nylon net and seed pearls secured her fingertip veil of nylon illusion. She carried a white orchid encircled with snow drift and white pom poms.

Maid of honor was Miss LaNell Gwin, close friend of the bride, who wore a street length dress of bronze polished cotton with matching headpiece and mitts. Her dress was designed with a rounded neckline, short sleeves and a full gathered skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of bronze shasta daisies.

Jack Reel was best man to the bridegroom, and Bob Ozment and Ronnie Riegel served as ushers.

Miss Shirley Jean Karnes, soloist, sang "Always," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Through the Years" accompanied by Miss Frances Cummins at the organ.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Ingram chose a navy sheer with matching hat and navy and white accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations against a background of powder blue.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the educational building where the couple cut a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Hostesses were DeLores Wetherford, sorority sister of the bride, Michal Foster, cousin of the bride, and Paula Russell, niece of the groom.

The bride is a graduate of the Harrisburg Township high school and attended two years at South-

ASSESSMENT LIST

Herewith is a list of personal property assessments as made by the township assessor of Mountain township and returned to MAYNARD CANNON, County Treasurer and Supervisor of Assessments of Saline County, Illinois.

The assessed values shown are subject to revision by the Saline County Board of Review and to equalization by the State Department of Revenue. Under Provisions of Section 146 of the Illinois Revenue Act of 1939 as amended in 1945, the Department of Revenue is required to determine the percentage relationship within each county of assessed value and the estimated full, fair cash value. Upon the basis of such data, the Department is required to raise or lower the total locally assessed values so that all such property will be assessed at its full, fair cash value.

These equalized values then become the base for tax extension for 1956 taxes, payable in 1957, and indicate the full, fair cash value of the properties assessed, based on the assessed values as made by the local assessment officials.

This publication, which is made in accordance with section 103 of the Revenue Act, serves as public notice to the taxpayers of the County of assessed values fixed upon their property by the township assessors.

The ration a brood sow is fed during gestation shows up in the size, strength and condition of the litters she farrows. Purina Sow & Pig Chow and grain is a balanced and nutritious feed that helps produce big litters of husky pigs. Provide good pasture, if available, and order Purina Sow & Pig Chow now.

BATHWAY'S HOGS ALMOST READY FOR MARKET

Earl Hathaway, Rt. 3, Harrisburg, who has some hogs fattened on Purina Chow almost ready for market, told me of a good record made by the last hogs he sold.

There ten of the swine, all from one litter, which were fed on Pig Supplement and Purina Chow and when they were three days less than five months old, they averaged 204 pounds.

HURRY HOGS TO MARKET

We expect to see a number of our Purina fed pigs, cows, and chickens on exhibition at the Saline county fair. Every year dozens of show winners are conditioned on Purina Chow.

We have the right Purina chow mixture for best success with your live stock poultry and pets and will be happy to give you a lot of feeding and management tips. Stop in soon, and good luck to all who show their stock and produce at our own Saline county fair.

ENDSLEY-BILLMAN NEWLYWEDS ON HONEYMOON

Our best wishes to Carolyn Sue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Endsley and Henry Billman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Billman. They are among our favorite young farm friends.

Went with Bill Haney and Glen Butler to Marion Wednesday to a Purina school of instruction and we were lined up on many new ways to help you folks as we make our delivery rounds every day. Just bring your problems to Bill or Glen and if they can't solve them, call on the old faithful—G. L.

We have missed the usual visits of some of our good friends from the country and learned that they are confined at home by illness. Here's hoping that they will all be up and about as usual without much further delay.

Wonderful crops are in prospect as a result of the good rains of the past week. Looks like the soy bean harvest will be as good as the wheat harvest was.

The Blonde Cried MURDER

By Brett Halliday

Copyright 1956 by Brett Halliday. Distributed by NEA Service.

9:32 P. M.

Evelyn Thompson yawned as she lounged in front of the switchboard at the Hibiscus Hotel. Normally she was quite a pretty girl, but tonight her face was sullen, her lips pouting with discontent. Wouldn't be so bad if there was anything doing, but after 9 o'clock at night at the Hibiscus in the off-season it was like running a switchboard in a morgue. Maybe there'd be half a dozen calls from rooms upstairs for more ice and soda before she went off at midnight. And that'd be all. For that, Evelyn had to sit here and miss her date with Roger.

And he'd be sore about it. A light flashed on the board in front of her. She stopped yawning and sat a little more erect and leaned forward negligently to plug in the connection. Room 360. That was Mr. Drood. "Drooling Drood," they called him. Not that he was so bad, but he did sort of seem to drool when he looked at a girl. Because his face was puffy and pink and always sweaty, and his full lips always looked wet. Funny he should be calling down now. Only 20 minutes ago that Miss Payne in 414 had called him. Evelyn had listened in, of course. Sometimes you heard some real good stuff when the guests called each other late in the evening. Miss Payne was tall and had a sort of haughty way about her, but with a welcome eye for the men for all that. Funny how she couldn't do better than old Drood. But then she was plenty old, too. Thirty-five at the least. And when you got that old, Evelyn thought complacently from her point of vantage at 19, you were just about ready to take anything that wore pants.

But they'd been very circum-spect. Almost like they might have some idea a girl downstairs on the switchboard wouldn't have anything better to do than listen in. Evelyn told herself indignantly.

Just Miss Payne saying she'd found that piece in the paper she'd told Mr. Drood about that afternoon, and would he care to come up and get it? And Mr. Drood drooling into the phone how he'd love to, and maybe Miss Payne'd like it if he brought along a night-cap for the two of them. And Miss Payne saying she had the ice if he had anything to go along with it.

That was it, Evelyn told herself as the plug went in. No ice had gone up to 414 since about 5 o'clock. Probably she just had a couple of half-melted ones left.

Into the mouthpiece beneath her chin, Evelyn Thompson said in dulcet tones, "Your call, please?"

A woman's voice answered from 360. Panting and strained, hoarsely hysterical: "There's a dead man in 316. He's murdered. Oh, please hurry." And there was a click that closed the connection.

Evelyn sat rigid, staring at the board with dilated eyes. But that was Mr. Drood's room, 360. It was plugged into 360. Her staring eyes verified that fact. Sounded like the woman said "three-sixteen." But it was 360. Sure it was. She must have heard wrong.

MURDER?

Evelyn frantically tried to call the number back. There was no answer. She jerked her head sideways toward the profile of the clerk, half-dozing behind his desk, and whispered loudly, "Dick."

The profile stirred and the clerk's head turned languidly toward her. She motioned excitedly with one hand while she plugged in another connection.

The telephone buzzed in a private office behind the front desk, and a man who was dozing, fully clothed, on an old sofa in the small office slowly came to life. Oliver Patton, "Chief Security Officer" of the Hibiscus, swung his feet over the edge of the sofa and sat up, rubbing his eyes. His was a 24-hour job since he was the only dick the hotel afforded, and he had to catch his sleep when he could. Generally it wasn't bad. Most nights went straight through without requiring his services at all.

He yawned as he glanced at his watch and reached for the phone beside the sofa. He was a big man who had gone steadily to fat since retiring from the police force a few years ago. His bunnions bothered him a good deal, but, with his wife's hospital bills, his pension simply wasn't enough and he needed this extra money.

Evelyn's low-pitched but excited voice leaped out of the receiver at him as he lifted it, "Trouble in 360, Mr. Patton!"

"What kind of trouble?" he grunted sourly. "That's Drood, ain't it?"

"But it wasn't Mr. Drood. Some woman called. There's a dead man there."

"Dead?" Oliver Patton stopped scratching the fold of fat in front of his belly and his mouth gaped. "Drood?"

"I don't know. It's awful, Mr. Patton. You better get up there quick. She said murder. Should I call the police?"

"Murder?" Patton's voice took on a sharp note of authority. "Don't call anybody." He slammed down the phone and rose to his six feet two, his heavy face worried. Murder in a hotel was real trouble. It was his job to keep the police out if there was any way possible. Of course, if it was murder, it wouldn't be possible. But he knew most of the boys on homicide. Sometimes you could fix things so there wouldn't have to be too much publicity.

He hurried out of his office and around a corner into the lobby where the clerk and bell captain and elevator operator were grouped at the desk talking excitedly to Evelyn.

They all stopped talking and looked to him for advice as he came up with ponderous swiftness. He disregarded them and demanded of Evelyn, "What you got, girl?"

"Just that. A woman called from 360 and said there was a murdered man there. She hung right up on me and didn't answer when I called back."

"Come along, Bill," he snapped at the bell captain. "You watch it here, Dick. Don't let anybody out—nobody up." He trotted heavily to the waiting elevator, and when the door slammed shut, asked the operator, "Bring anybody down recently?"

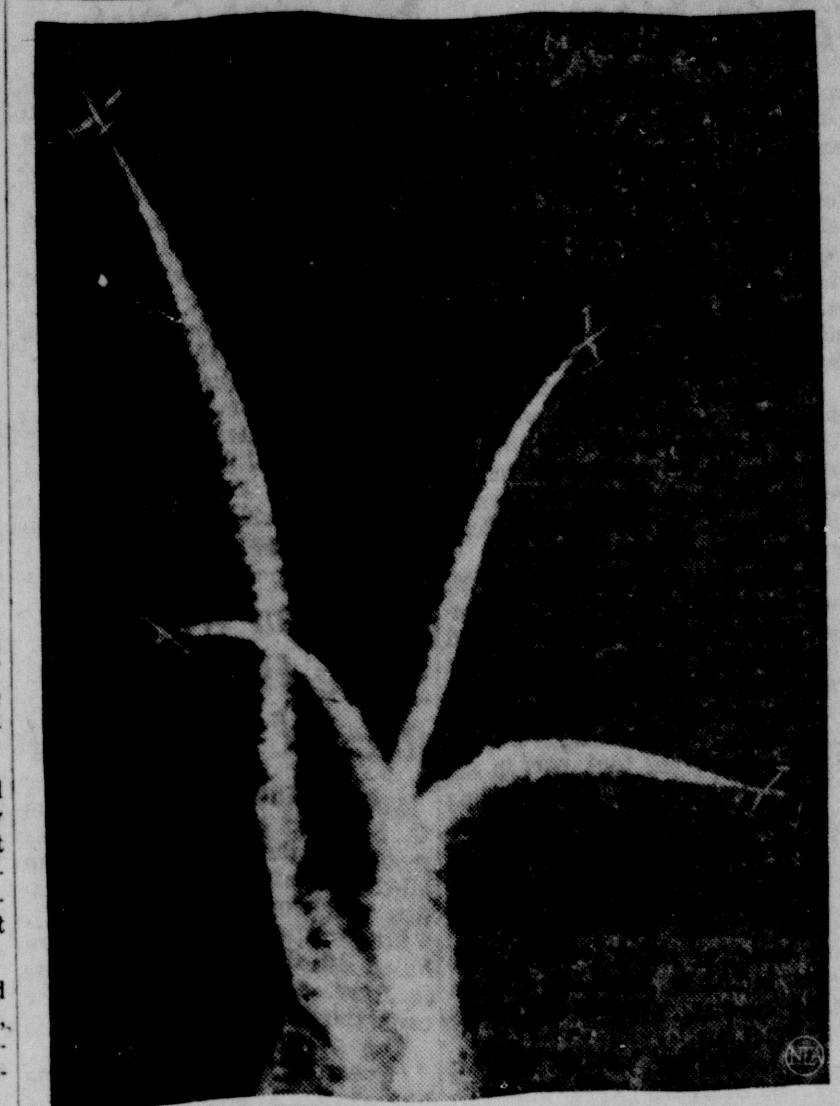

"They was a lady a few minutes ago, Chief. She come from five." As the elevator stopped and he opened the doors, he asked anxiously, "What must I do?"

"Hold it right here," snapped Patton. "No matter how many bells ring." He turned to his left with Bill at his heels, moved swiftly but quietly toward a door standing open with light streaming out of it.

The open door was numbered 360. The overhead lights were on, revealing an impersonal hotel bedroom with a double bed in the corner between two windows.

There was no woman in the room, and no dead man in sight. Everything was in perfect order with a man's bedroom slippers showing from under the bed, a pair of violently flowered pajamas lying across the foot of it, a set of silver-backed brushes on the dressing table.

U. S. Denies A. F. Planes Invaded Soviet Territory

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has denied Russian charges that U. S. Air Force planes flew deep into Soviet territory earlier this month.

In a note delivered to the Soviet Embassy here Thursday, the State Department also branded as "unwarranted" and "obviously out of place" Soviet insinuations that Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan F. Twining may have arranged the alleged flights.

The note said the remarks suggesting Twining arranged the flights during a recent trip to Moscow hurt international relations.

Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarouhin delivered a Soviet protest July 10 charging that Air Force bombers based in West Germany flew as deep as 200 miles into Soviet territory on July 4, 5 and 9. Poland subsequently lodged a similar protest.

Illinois Civil Defense Workers In Action for Operation Alert

CHICAGO (AP)—Four massive but strictly imaginary nuclear bombs smashed at populous cities of Illinois today and the state's large army of Civil Defense workers went into action on a 48-hour emergency basis.

The CD corps, numbering more than 350,000 members, got a first rate opportunity to test its efficiency in tackling problems that would arise in the event of a real enemy attack.

Illinois began its participation in the nationwide exercise known as "Operation Alert 1956" at 8:55 a. m. CST when Gov. William G. Stratton declared a Civil Defense emergency. It followed by five minutes a national proclamation by President Eisenhower.

More than 8,000 employees of the Ford Motor Company's aircraft division on Chicago's southwest side carried out a full-scale evacuation of the plant, leaving the building through underground tunnels.

At 2:01 p. m., the peak of the emergency period, radio and television stations went off the air and "Conelrad" took over for 15 minutes. The 15-minute test period was ordered by the Federal Communications Commission.

Conelrad, short for "control of electromagnetic radiation" is a special defense radio procedure aimed at preventing enemy aircraft from using the beams of standard broadcasting stations as "highways" to vital cities.

Thirty-one radio stations in the state took part in the Conelrad exercise, broadcasting Civil Defense information over one of two frequencies, either 640 or 1240 on a standard dial.

In addition to the theoretical bombs Illinois' part in the alert also assumed other combat incidents, including sabotage, rumors, plane crashes, capture of enemy personnel, etc.

The operation was to close at 9 a. m. Saturday with an intelligence summary by the Illinois Civil Defense Agency.

Girl's Stepfather Wounds Airman, Kills Himself
PLEASANT HILL, Ill. (AP)—Cecil Battershell shot and wounded a 19-year-old airman Thursday night as the youth arrived for a date with Battershell's stepdaughter. Battershell then shot and killed himself.

Pike County Sheriff Virgil Griffith said the airman, Tom Shafer, Kane, was shot and wounded as he approached the Battershell home on a farm near here.

Griffith said Shafer was arriving to take Battershell's stepdaughter, Patricia Drummond, to the Green County fair and for a visit to her father.

Shafer was taken to Scott Air Force Base for surgery. Griffith said Battershell apparently objected to the girl's visiting her father.

Beauties Compete Tonight for Miss Universe Title
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—An international bevy of 15 beautiful girls competes tonight for the Miss Universe title with Miss Germany and Miss Israel the audience favorites.

The two girls, whose brief feud earlier this week almost disrupted the contest, got the biggest hands Thursday night during selection of the 15 semi-finalists for the beauty title. Miss U.S.A., Carol Morris, 20, an Ottumwa, Iowa, minister's daughter, was among the finalists.

Miss Germany, Marina Orschel, provided momentary excitement Thursday night when a shoulder strap of her bathing suit slipped as she was walking down the runway. A gasp swept the audience when the strategic ribbon of cloth slipped but Miss Orschel quickly pulled it back into place. She has a 40-inch bust.

Miss Germany and Miss Israel, Sara Tal, patched up their feud before it could cause an international incident. Miss Tal had refused to have her picture taken with Miss Orschel because she said many of relatives had been killed by the Nazis.

Miss Tal said, however, that she had nothing personal against the German girl and contest officials persuaded the two girls to pose smilingly together, patching up the incident.

Both of these men are former members of the Dorrisville church and were ordained and sent out to preach from there.

American Airman Sentenced to Hang By British Court

LEEDS, England (AP)—A British court sentenced an American airman to death by hanging today for stabbing a British laborer to death during a cafe brawl.

The convicted American was Airman 2. C. James C. Jordan, 20, Newark, N. J. He was convicted of the fatal stabbing of 27-year-old laborer Walter Beaumont in a backside cafe at Hull on May 4.

Jordan, a Negro, is the first American serviceman to be found guilty of murder by a British court since U. S. forces returned to Britain in 1951.

The jury added a strong recommendation for mercy.

Stratton Warns State Headed for Record Traffic Toll

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Gov. William G. Stratton today warned Illinois motorists they are headed for an all-time traffic death record "unless you slow down your speed."

Stratton said 165 persons were killed in Illinois traffic accidents in June, a nine per cent increase over the 152 deaths in June, 1955. The governor said:

"Speed is the great killer on the highways. I have sought the cooperation of all state, county and municipal authorities in a concerted effort to reduce highway accidents. It remains for the motorists themselves, however, to bring about the reduction through more careful operation of their vehicles."

There were 938 traffic deaths in the first six months of 1956, compared with 950 deaths in the same period last year. But Stratton said that in five of the first six months of this year, fatalities have been "equal to or higher" than in the corresponding months last year.

Southerners Agree to House Civil Rights Vote

By United Press
House leaders reached agreement with balking Southerners today to vote on President Eisenhower's civil rights bill on Monday.

The compromise was reached when the Southerners agreed to call off their "fillbuster" in return for a leadership pledge not to press for a vote this week.

The delay until Monday diminished what little prospect there might have been of getting the bill through the Senate too before next week's adjournment.

Overwhelming House passage seemed certain and the Southerners knew it. But the chances of getting the bill through the Senate at the tag end of the session are practically nil and the three-day delay won by the Southerners made it even more certain.

Leaders on both sides were still determined to wind up the session "sometime next week"—probably Saturday, July 28—so members can head home for some pre-convention politicking.

The Senate meantime debated the foreign aid appropriation bill. Administration forces fought to get the full four-billion-dollar total now requested by the President.

Regardless of the outcome, the administration won't get its original request for $4,900,000,000 in spending. Congress already has voted to put on a $4,000,000,000 spending lid and the House has cut the actual money to $3,400,000,000. The most the administration can hope to get in the rush to adjourn is a compromise between the Senate and House figures.

Indiana Housewife Named GOP Farm Field Representative

CHICAGO (AP)—An Indiana farm housewife will be the women's field representative for the Republican National Committee farm division, it was announced Wednesday.

Division director, Dan Thornton, former governor of Colorado, said the new appointee, Mrs. Mabel Fraser, Delphi, Ind., is well acquainted with farm problems. He said she has helped manage a 180-acre farm since 1943.

Dr. L. I. Webb who recently took a trip to Mexico as a missionary journey for the Southern Baptist association will be present at the Harco Baptist church Sunday at 7:30 p. m. to show colored slides and lecture on the work being done by Baptists in the mission fields.

Ike's Brother To Speak Saturday At Springfield

CHICAGO (AP)—President Eisenhower's brother, Earl D. Eisenhower, La Grange Park, Ill., will speak Saturday at a day-long conference of state and local leaders of the Citizens for Eisenhower organization at Springfield.

The organization also announced Thursday that Samuel W. Witwer, its state chairman, will be principal speaker at the conference.

The meeting will start with a tape-recorded message from President Eisenhower, to be introduced by former Gov. Howard Pyle, Arizona.

A round-table discussion of campaign issues will have as panelists Mrs. Alton G. Hall, Springfield; Lester R. Stone, East Moline, on farm issues; William Stuenkel, Springfield, on labor; Julius C. Thomas, Chicago, on civil rights; Charles A. Bana, Chicago, on business; George Hooper, Western Springs, on foreign policy; and Mrs. Robert C. Meissner, Hinsdale, on demonstration of new speakers' techniques.

Panama Orders Security Measures For Conference

PANAMA CITY (AP)—Panamanian troops patrolled this country's borders with Costa Rica to the north and Colombia to the south today to keep out "undesirable individuals" during the week-end meeting of Western Hemisphere presidents.

The government ordered "unprecedented" security measures to assure the safety of 17 presidents and presidents-elect, including U. S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Police kept a close watch on all foreign visitors, authorities said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will leave by plane tonight for Panama to attend the Conference of American Presidents.

Brodie Child Loses Sense of Balance

CHICAGO (AP)—Rodney Dee Brodie, who came through an historic operation in 1952 which separated him from his Siamese twin brother, has lost his sense of balance and can walk only when assisted. The four-year-old youngster was admitted Thursday to the University of Illinois Research and Educational hospital here where spokesmen said he would undergo "re-evaluation." His condition was described as "good as far as everything else goes."

Rodney and his twin, Roger, were joined at the top of the head at birth. Roger, however, died several weeks after the operation which separated the boys Dec. 17, 1952. Rodney has returned to the hospital several times, once for a brain hemorrhage.

KIWANIANS ARE READY for the annual baseball game with the Rotarians Wednesday night, July 25, at the VFW baseball park. Game time will be 8 o'clock, and proceeds will go into the Kiwanis ball park fund to support its baseball program for the youth of the city. Eagerly anticipating the game is the Kiwanis "first team" above: Kneeling, left to right, Charles Braden, Manager Jake Humphrey, Fred Wunderlich, Fred "Yogi" Bramlet and Ronnie Doerge; seated, left to right, Eugene Morris, Charley Shingler, Charley Rauh, Joe Hollingsworth and C. J. Beggs. Other members of the club will also appear in the game or lend moral support. (Ronnie's Studio Photo)

Kiwanis, Rotary to Meet in Annual Baseball Game Wednesday Night, July 25

Kiwanians announced themselves "fit and ready" for the Rotarians in the annual baseball game between the two clubs.

Kiwanis manager, Jake Humphrey, stated, "We will take it easy on those old men. Even though we have given them a week to store up on vitamins I doubt whether they will last a full two innings."

Game time will be at 8 p. m.

Wednesday night, July 25, at the VFW ball park near the fairgrounds.

Battery for the Kiwanis club will consist of "Chuck" Rauh on the mound and Fred (just call me Yogi) Bramlet doing the catching. In a warm up practice Tuesday night Manager Humphrey stated they were lucky in losing only 31 balls which were knocked out of the park by the Kiwanis long ball hitters.

The public is urged to attend this slaughter game. All proceeds will go to the ball park fund.

President Ronnie Doerge says "It is a rare occasion when the public will have an opportunity to see such an outstanding array of fine ball players."

Ford and Sneed Co-Favorites In PGA Tourney

CANTON, Mass. — Defending champion Doug Ford and Sam Sneed, a three-time winner of the title, were co-favorites today to win the PGA golf championship as the field of 127 pros teed off for the first of nine rounds of match play.

Although both of them have been scrambling in practice rounds, their fellow pros agreed they were the ones to beat, because the 6,634-yard Blue Hills Country Club course is suited to their game.

But like the golfers who picked them, Ford and Sneed were critical of the course, complaining especially of the condition of the fairways.

They agreed that it was one of the most poorly conditioned courses over which a major championship ever has been decided.

Sneed expressed the general opinion when a club member asked him what he thought of the course.

"What course?" Sneed asked. Then turning aside to his playing partners, he remarked, "How could anyone call this a course?"

Even so, Sneed, who said an old injury to his left hand no longer bothered him, admitted that "if I putt okay, I should be all right."

Banked behind Ford and Sneed was Tommy Bolt at 4-1 with Walt Burkemo, the 1953 winner and twice runner-up, ranked at 6-1 along with the veteran Jimmy Demaret.

Ed Furgol, the 1954 U. S. Open champion, and Ed (Porky) Oliver, the host pro, were listed at 8-1. Behind them at 10-1 were Masters champion Jackie Burke, Chick Harbert, Dick Mayer, Bob Toski, Ted Kroll, Jimmy Turnesa and Al Besseling.

Cassady Signs Pro Grid Contract

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Ohio State All-American Howard (Hop-along) Cassady began his professional football career today as "the highest paid rookie in the National Football League."

The Detroit Lions signed the red-haired Ohio State halfback to a two-year contract Wednesday, calling for an estimated $15,000 annually.

"I'm very satisfied and very lucky," said Cassady at a news conference. "I hope I'm as lucky with Detroit as I was at Ohio State."

Jackson's, Social Brethren Win Kiwanis Games

By David Nelson

Jackson's Drugs downed Pankey's Bakery 5-4 and Social Brethren defeated the Braves 8-3 in Kiwanis league baseball games played Thursday.

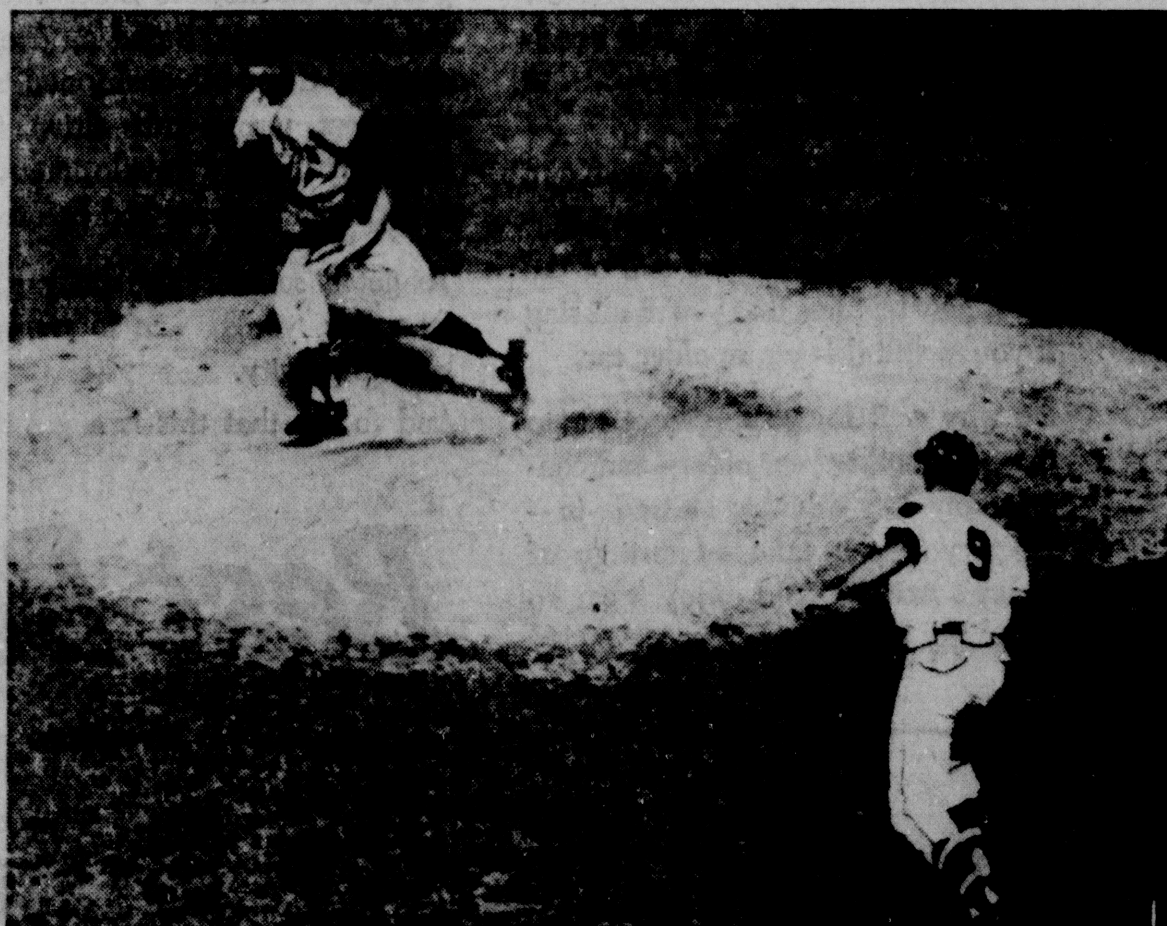

Jackson's scored four runs in the seventh on four walks and a long triple by Gee to take the decision from Pankey's 5-4.

Craver was on the hill for the winners, giving up four runs on five hits, three errors and only one walk. Gibbons, pitching for the losers allowed five runs on four hits, one error and seven free passes. Craver also was the leading hitter for his team with two singles. Hill and Gibbons each hit twice for Pankey's.

NOTE: All boys interested in playing Kiwanis league ball, who are in the 15-16 year old age group, are asked to meet Friday night at 7:30 at the VFW park.

"HIT ME WILL'YA"—Angry Joe Adcock, Milwaukee Braves first baseman, runs after New York Giant pitcher Rabin Gomez as Gomez takes off for the Giant dugout at Milwaukee. Chase started when Gomez and Adcock exchanged words while Adcock was going to first base after being hit by pitched ball. Gomez, threw another ball and hit Adcock again. Umpire, officers and other players averted any large-scale melee, but Gomez and Adcock were ejected from the game. (NEA Telephoto)

Joe Adcock Drives in Eight Runs as Braves Rout Giants, 13-3; Reds Defeat Dodgers

By United Press

Some baseball "experts" mock big Joe Adcock as a "guess hitter," but he's guessing so well these days that he ought to be on one of those television quiz shows.

The six-foot, four-inch Milwaukee slugger put on another of his home run sprees Thursday with a grand slam homer, a three-run homer, and two more hits for a total of eight runs-batted-in in a 13-3 rout of the New York Giants.

The victory enabled the Braves to retain their two-game National League lead over the Cincinnati Redlegs, who drubbed Brooklyn at night, 7-2.

Joe Hottest Slugger

Whether or not Adcock really guesses what each pitch will be, there's no denying he's the hottest slugger in the majors. His total of 19 home runs includes 10 in the last 13 games, a period in which he drove in a total of 23 runs. And the Braves won 11 of those 13 games to take over the league lead.

Adcock, who literally chased Giant pitcher Ruben Gomez out of the park Tuesday after being hit by a pitch, chased Giant starter Jim Hearn in the first inning with his 400-foot grand-slam homer. He added his three-run homer in the sixth off Dick Littlefield. He doubled in the third and singled home a run in the fourth. His eight RBIs were a single-game high in the National League this year.

Ed Mathews drove in three of the Braves' other runs and Warren Spahn breezed to his ninth win for the league leaders with an eight-hitter.

Jeffcoat Beats Maglie

The Redlegs, trailing 2-1 after Gil Hodges hit his 20th homer in the sixth, went ahead in the same frame on Gus Bell's 18th circuit blow with one on and wrapped it up with four in the seventh. Hal Jeffcoat won over Sal Maglie in a pitching duel.

In the only other NL game, Dee Fondy's homer with two out in the 10th inning gave Chicago a 4-3 win over the Philadelphia Phillies. Jim King and Walt Moryn also homered for the Cubs and Granny Hamner for the Phils. Turk Lown won in relief, his second win in three days.

In the American League, the New York Yankees stretched their runaway league lead to 10 1/2 games with a 7-3 victory over Detroit when second-place Cleveland lost to Washington, 5-4, on Eddie Yost's second homer of the game with two out in the ninth inning. Byrne Wins Fifth

The Yankees, tied, 3-3, erupted for four runs in the sixth to win as Hank Bauer's bases-loaded double highlighted the rally. Tommy Byrne gained his fifth win with relief help from Tom Morgan.

Cleveland blew a 4-0 lead in losing to Washington as Bunky Stewart stopped them with two-hit pitching in 7 1/3 relief innings.

The Chicago White Sox at last ended their 11-game losing streak as southpaw Billy Pierce scattered six hits and fanned nine to nip Baltimore, 3-2. It was Pierce's 14th victory, tying him with Johnny Kucks of the Yankees, for top winning honors in the majors, and his 12th complete game.

The Kansas City A's downed the Boston Red Sox, 8-4, as Vic Power, idle seven games because of dental trouble, came back to lead the way with a three-run homer. The win snapped the A's four-game losing streak.

ASSESSMENT LIST

Herewith is a list of personal property assessments as made by the township assessor of Brushy township and returned to MAYNARD CANNON, County Treasurer and Supervisor of Assessments of Saline County, Illinois.

The assessed values shown are subject to revision by the Saline County Board of Review and to equalization by the State Department of Revenue. Under Provisions of Section 146 of the Illinois Revenue Act of 1939 as amended in 1945, the Department of Revenue is required to determine the percentage relationship within each county of assessed value and the estimated full, fair cash value. Upon the basis of such data, the Department is required to raise or lower the total locally assessed values so that all such property will be assessed at its full, fair cash value.

These equalized values then become the base for tax extension for 1956 taxes, payable in 1957, and indicate the full, fair cash value of the properties assessed, based on the assessed values as made by the local assessment officials.

This publication, which is made in accordance with section 103 of the Revenue Act, serves as public notice to the taxpayers of the County of assessed values fixed upon their property by the township assessors.

Board to Ask Opinion On Power to Set Salary

The board in May instructed the state's attorney to ask the bonding company to make good the $9,726.50.

"They seem to think they don't owe anything," Wilson said of the bonding company.

Alvin Gates (R Cottage) then brought up the paragraph in Wilson's letter which stated that no complaints had been made. To this Wilson said he meant any legal complaints against Garrison, that several had complained to him about the situation. Gates also said that if a new auditor were hired, the board should do the hiring. William Alfred Smith said he had heard no complaints about the figures in the Coker and Coker audit being wrong and thought it should be sufficient for action. Smith also declared he thought the bonding company ought to have to prove to the county that it is not responsible.

"We have paid for an audit and it looks like the bonding company should now prove it isn't liable," he stated.

Wilson said the only retort against the bonding company would be to sue for the money and added that the audit itself was not evidence, that the man who made it would have to be brought into court here to testify.

Favors Recommendations

Aubrey Giles (D Eldorado) said he thought a special audit should be made and that the case should be taken into court, that the man "should be innocent until he is proven guilty." He said he favored ed the recommendations of the state's attorney.

After considerable more discussion Tom Maxwell (D Eldorado) said he believed it a question of whether or not the appropriation ordinance would take care of the salary.

Then Wilson was asked if he would have the power to take the case to the grand jury on the figures of the audit firm, Coker and Coker. Wilson replied that he could ask the circuit judge to call a grand jury to consider the case, adding that it would not be necessary to have a sworn complaint before the grand jury made its investigation. He added that once it was empaneled, a grand jury could be on its own to investigate where and as long as it wanted to.

"If you can get your facts together, you can ask for a grand jury probe," he told the board.

Readjust Claims

"It seems to me," Chairman Patterson said, "that Wilson already has the authority to call for grand jury action."

Wilson replied that if such is the case, this action will not be one which will recover the money. It was at this point that it was voted to contact the attorney-general regarding the power of the appropriation ordinance in setting a salary.

Earlier in the meeting it was revealed that the claims for the June salaries of Garrison's employees, held up last month for a committee investigation into the amounts the workers were receiving, were adjusted downward in some cases from $300 to $225 and to $200, amounts set up in the appropriation ordinance, and approved by the Claims committee. The July salaries were approved yesterday also on the smaller adjustment.

William Douglas (R Harrisburg) explained that the committee had approved the June salary claims as they should have been, with the salaries $225 and $200. He said he had heard, however, that some checks had been written for the original amounts and questioned Maude Curry, deputy county clerk who is acting for Garrison. It was reported Garrison came to work yesterday morning but became ill and left before the board meeting began.

She replied that she hadn't written any such checks, adding "you'll have to talk to someone else."

"I believe Mrs. Curry has co-operated with the committee and we can't hold her responsible for checks written by someone else," Douglas stated, adding he believed the June pay checks for Garrison's office had been written at the larger figures.

Mrs. Curry said that William

Entrance Exams at St. Luke's Hospital Nursing School Aug. 4

Entrance examinations to fill openings in the freshman class of St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing, 5535 Delmar Boulevard, St. Louis, will be given at the school at 9 a. m., Saturday, August 4. Several scholarships are available for the fall term, starting Sept. 13. Girls who have completed high school may secure information and descriptive literature by writing Miss Ruth Lanfersieck, director of nursing and nursing education.

Alfred Smith and Chairman Patterson had queried her in the county clerk's office recently about these checks and she said she referred them to Garrison who was in a back room.

Patterson replied that the two contacted Garrison about them and he told them that he would answer no questions, that they would have to ask his attorney.

Only the newest version of Dynaflo gives completely smooth, swift acceleration - even at the first gear inch of pedal pressure.

Trying is believing—this new 1956 Dynaflo is years ahead of any other transmission. And it's just one of the great new features that you're missing if you're still driving an older car.

So why wait for your present car to become another year older—and considerably less valuable as trade-in—when you can take advantage of today's prices? And enjoy a car so excitingly new?

Just look at Buick's new styling. "Mas-sive" and "grace" are words that seem almost contradictory. But they're beautifully combined in these newest Buicks. And in a classic way that will still look fresh for years to come.

THE RIVALS:

Major Television Networks Matching Champs in Dial-Twisting Brawls

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — "In this corner, wearing a light blue shirt..." They don't introduce TV stars that way, but they could. Television has become a battle between networks for ratings, with stars slotted in time spots where they are out to get their opposition. And the public suffers. Good shows are scheduled at the same time. Some nights are left with a few cheap filmed shows and some second-rate panel programs on all channels. You're faced with the problem of which of two good programs to watch, or what to do on the off nights.

Next fall will be more so. The three major networks have called up the reserves in an effort to knock each other down. Some of the big bouts on the card are these:

1. Ed Sullivan (CBS) vs. Steve Allen (NBC). This one has already gone a few rounds, but summer really doesn't count in TV ratings. The fall will tell.

2. Phil Silvers (CBS) vs. Ray Bolger, Dinah Shore, Bob Hope, et al (NBC). Silvers KO-ed Milton Berle in his last go, so NBC is bringing in a new show, with alternating stars.

3. Jackie Gleason (CBS) vs. Perry Como (NBC). Como got a split decision this past season, so CBS has persuaded Gleason to abandon his on-film format and half-hour size and go back to the full-hour, live show of two years ago.

4. Sid Caesar (NBC) vs. Lawrence Welk (ABC), Gale Storm and Jeannie Carson (CBS). Welk, on ABC, had the field pretty much to himself last year—the other networks had figured Saturday night around nine was pretty poor TV time so they'd just send out some patsies. This year, they're out to get Welk and his Champagne Music. NBC has shifted Sid Caesar into the time spot. CBS has built two new filmed shows around two talented girls, Gale Storm and Jeannie Carson. The smart money is on Caesar.

There are some minor fights slated, too. Arthur Godfrey is in for a tough year. His Talent Scouts show on Monday nights, has been slipping. NBC is out to help the slide with a new live comic show starring Buddy Hackett as a cigar-store clerk named "Stanley." This could be the Phil Silvers show of the new season. And Godfrey's off-again, on-again Wednesday night program faces a new Wally Cox show, "The Adventures of Hiram Holliday," that could give him trouble.

An interesting battle may shape up for Walter Winchell, who next year will try to copy his old enemy, Sullivan. Winchell will front a Friday night half-hour variety show on NBC. CBS has set a new Western program, "The Zane Grey Theater," in against Winchell. But, should the columnist prove a good rating-getter, probably CBS would quickly move in something stronger.

The big money shows are back for more in the fall. The first, CBS' "The $64,000 Question," is up against the second half of NBC's new hour-long live dramatic show, "The Kaiser Aluminum Hour." "The $64,000 Challenge" will have a breather again, with NBC still slotting Loretta Young in opposition. But NBC's "Big Surprise" could have a stiff fight from CBS' "Buccaneer," which replaces "Beat the Clock," badly beaten last year. And CBS moved in a new high finance show, "High Finance," opposite NBC's longtime hit, "Your Hit Parade."

Many of the stars claim they don't give a decimal point about ratings. They profess to feel that as long as the sponsor is happy, they don't care what the figures show. That was Gleason's story all last year. But nobody likes to come in second and that's especially true of people in the entertainment field who have to be slightly egocentric to start with or else they would be in some other trade.

But the probability is they are not happy about the rating war. They'd be better off against weak opposition, rather than being sent out specifically to try and beat somebody strong. And therefore they all privately pooch-pooch the importance of ratings, generally pointing to Red Buttons, who was sacked by both his sponsor and his network even though he always scored well on the ratings.

Steve Allen, dispatched by NBC to try and cut down Ed Sullivan's big Sunday night lead, did just that his second try. But he had help from Elvis Presley as a guest star—the same Elvis Presley whose presence on Milton Berle's last show enabled Uncle Miltie to out-rate Phil Silvers for the first time in months.

"Ed Sullivan is a good friend of mine," Allen says. "I'm not out to hurt him. I want to have a good rating, sure, but I certainly wouldn't be down-hearted if Ed had a point or two higher."

thetic when, Sunday after Sunday, you know that you must battle to knock off a rival TV attraction. So I'm all for it."

Phil Silvers is happy his show was a success, but truly feels sorry it had to be done at the expense of his old friend, Berle. He especially resents any implication that their on-screen rivalry affected their off-screen palship. "I appreciate all my awards," Silvers says, "but I think it was Berle who made the medium grow as quickly as it did so it could absorb all the rest of us who followed him. I am thankful our friendship for each other hasn't been affected by our TV rivalry—it hasn't."

The point of view of ad agencies is expressed by William B. Lewis, president of Kenyon & Eckhardt, the agency that handles Sullivan's sponsor.

"It is helpful to realize that competition is the lifeblood of television," Lewis says, "just as it is in the case of all businesses that depend on the public's favor. In the end, it makes for better programs and better television—including more acceptable, and therefore more effective, commercials."

So it's competition, this TV rivalry. But it's pretty expensive, it disrupts intelligent TV programming and it is unnecessary. There are few enough good shows; they could be slotted when they wouldn't oppose each other. Chances are they'd sell more merchandise, too.

First Plastic

In the latter part of the 19th century, John Hyatt, an American scientist, mixed camphor with nitrated cotton cellulose and got celluloid, often called the first plastic.

First recorded mention of the olive is in the Bible, when the dove returns to the Ark and Noah bearing an olive twig in its beak.
